

Enhancement and Assessment in the AI Age

Excellent Educator, 3(2), 4, 2026

Academic Insights

- Learning increasingly occurs through human–AI collaboration.
- The extended-mind perspective reframes assessment in AI-rich contexts.
- Fully AI-free assessment is becoming unrealistic.
- What matters is how tools are used, not tool avoidance.
- Assessment must value contribution, judgment, and interpretation.

Apply This Now

- Assess how students use tools, not just what they submit.

Add This in Your Lesson

- Include reflective prompts on human–AI decision making.

Avoid This Mistake

- Designing assessments as if AI does not exist.
